'Magic' in the air. Cole Harbour woman born with cerebral palsy gets the chance to see the world through the eyes of a high-flying drone

A big smile comes to Jennica Gagné's face when she remembers the first time she was able to make a phone call.

"Magic," the 21-year-old Cole Harbour woman recalls, blushing a rosy shade that matches her hot-pink hair. "It was so cool."

Jennica, who was born with cerebral palsy and uses a power wheelchair to move around, wasn't able to make a phone call by herself until last year, when she was fitted with a new chair that allowed her to use an iPhone through a set of head controls.

"She was able to call me by herself and then I cried happy tears when she hung up on me by herself," her mother Krysta says.

The pair are now hoping to recreate that magic on Saturday when Jennica has the chance to be in the pilot's seat of a drone that will be flying over MacDonald Beach near Cole Harbour.

"We can't put her in the driver's seat, but we can put her in the passenger's," flight organizer Marc Cayotte said Thursday.

Cayotte, a member of the Shearwater RC Flyers Club and a neighbour of the Gagnes, said he wanted to give Jennica a way to see the world from an aerial perspective — a big change from the view from her wheelchair.

Jennica's chair will be mounted with a tablet that streams live video from a camera attached to the drone, Cayotte explained. Once she feels comfortable, she can wear a pair of goggles to allow her a more immersive experience of being up in the air.

"She'll essentially feel like she's flying," said John Liddard, who will be piloting the drone on Saturday. "It helps change everyone's perspective on what people are capable of."

Jennica's mother says the two of them are ecstatic, especially since there is new technology that could one day allow Jennica to control a drone by herself from her iPhone.

"It's the independence of doing the little things that we take for granted," she says.

As for Jennica: "I have no idea what I'm walking into," she said, laughing.

But luckily, she says any nerves are overshadowed by the excitement she feels at the opportunity of gaining more independence.

"It means that I do what a normal person can do."

Officials describe the transformation plan

HALEY RYAN

haley.ryan@metronews.ca

After roughly one million work hours and $150 million, drivers on Macdonald Bridge should have a clear harbour view from the newly paved deck.

On Thursday, Halifax Harbour Bridges general manager Steve Snider and contractor Mike Cegelis of American Bridge Canada outlined budget and workload details.

The first sign of "The Big Lift" should be crews stiffening the trusses with new steel next March so it can handle the weight of construction.

Those trusses will be moved underneath the deck when new pieces go in during the summer of 2016, Cegelis said.

"What they're going to notice is a better view. It won't be so you get that feeling of compression when you're driving.... It'll be open on the sides," Cegelis said, adding there will still be a rail between traffic and the bike path.

"It's like driving across the MacKay Bridge," Snider said.

The walkways and bike lanes will be removed next June. Snider said shuttles pulling bike trailers will take people across the bridge 24/7 until fall 2016.

About 46 old deck pieces will be lowered onto a barge and new ones lifted into place during bridge closures over four weekends and overnights, starting next August.

After the re-decking is done in 2016, Cegelis said they'll shut down the bridge overnight once more to repave. Then they can put in new suspender ropes, raise the whole bridge and dehumidify the cables to extend their life, with everything done by September 2017.

The Macdonald Bridge transformation is set to be complete by September 2017. METRO FILE

Premier: Gov't not 'going to war with organized labour'

Public sector costs.

Health minister wants to reduce number of health authorities from 10 to 2

Nova Scotia's government is laying the ground for another showdown with its public sector unions after promising to slow down hiring, consider relying on the private sector to deliver some services and streamline collective bargaining with health-care workers.

The Liberal government took aim at public sector labour costs in its throne speech Thursday, warning that the salaries of civil service workers could not be sustained given Nova Scotia's financial pressures.

Premier Stephen McNeil, who came to power nearly a year ago, said wage increases have exceeded the province's ability to pay in recent years and are adding to the mounting debt.

"This is not at all going to war with organized labour," McNeil said after the throne

More speech highlights

The government said it will also proclaim legislation brought in by the NDP in 2010 that doubles fines and adds four demerit points for people convicted of using cellphones while driving. McNeil also promised in the throne speech to ban the use of e-cigarettes.

speech. "There has to be an ability to pay for the services we have as a province and everyone is going to have to play a part in that."

One of the measures the government is promising involves reducing the number of health authorities from 10 to two. Legislation will be introduced Monday to merge those health boards and determine how health-care workers will be represented in contract negotiations, Health Minister Leo Glavine said.

Glavine said the government decided to impose a framework that will identify which unions will represent nurses, technologists, administrative and support workers after negotiations with the unions broke down over the summer.

"Amongst those four unions in acute care there are currently 50 bargaining contracts that go on and we want to dramatically reduce that," Glavine said.

He said the bill would also provide for a mediator to iron out existing contractual differences across the various bargaining units.

"It won't come about through an easy process, but I think the benefits to Nova Scotia and to the workers will definitely be seen," he said.

Glavine wouldn't give an

Bargaining changes undemocratic: Opposition

Acting NDP Leader Maureen MacDonald said the government's latest move to change the collective bargaining process was undemocratic and would further erode the health system by affecting the morale of its workers.

"In a democracy you let people make their own choices about who speaks for them," said MacDonald.

Progressive Conservative Leader Jamie Baillie said while it was preferable to let workers decide how they are represented, he is awaiting more details about the bill and how it will benefit the health system.

"We're interested in the results," Baillie said. "Will there be savings for taxpayers? Will services get better for Nova Scotia patients?"

N.S. Supreme Court. Halifax beating death case adjourned for two weeks

The case of a man accused in a fatal beating outside a Halifax bar has been adjourned for two weeks.

Andre Noel Denny, who is charged with second-degree murder, was briefly in the Nova Scotia Supreme Court where his case was set over until Oct. 9 to give him more time to find a new lawyer. Denny was expected to stand trial earlier this month, but that was delayed when he fired his lawyer.

Four weeks set aside

A Nova Scotia judge has set trial dates for two people charged with murder in the death of Loretta Saunders, but the cases could be tried separately if a motion to sever them is granted.

Judge John Murphy set aside four weeks for the jury trial starting April 20 in Nova Scotia Supreme Court for Blake Leggette, 26, and Victoria Henneberry, 28, who are both charged with first-degree murder.

Leggette's lawyer, Terry Sheppard, said he was pleased the case could go ahead in the spring, adding that his client will have been incarcerated for more than a year by the time a trial starts.

year, so I'm glad there's a month available for a jury trial in the spring," he said outside court after the brief hearing Thursday.

One of the cases could be delayed if the judge accepts a motion by Pat Atherton, Henneberry's lawyer, to have the two accused tried separately. If successful, at least one trial will go ahead on April 20.

That request, along with other motions dealing with the admissibility of evidence, will be dealt with in court before the trial starts. A date was not set for that hearing.

Leggette and Henneberry were charged in the death of 26-year-old Saunders, who disappeared from her Halifax apartment in February.

Her body was found in a wooded area off the Trans-Canada Highway in New Brunswick two weeks later.

Multiple charges are expected after Halifax police say a 28-year-old man drove away with a stretch SUV limo from Dartmouth early Thursday.

Halifax Regional Police spokesman Const. Pierre Bourdages said they received a call around 8:50 a.m. that a black SUV limousine had been taken from the 300 block of Windmill Drive between 4 and 8:30 a.m.

"It was parked at 4 a.m. by the driver, and when he got up this morning he realized the vehicle was gone," said Bourdages.

He said police also received a report around 7 a.m. of someone driving a similar vehicle "at a high rate of speed and erratically" on Highway 118, but that car was not found.

Police say charges against the 28-year-old man are expected to include possession of stolen goods, taking a vehicle without consent, breach of probation and driving while disqualified.

Around 10 a.m., Bourdages said an officer at North and Oxford streets spotted a stretch SUV driving in the area. Police followed it to Gottingen Street, pulled the limo over and arrested a 28-year-old without incident.

Bourdages said this is the first time he remembers hearing about a stolen limo in Halifax.

"It's a very unique vehicle so it was easily spotted by the officer," Bourdages said.

He said the vehicle was a Lincoln Navigator that had been transformed into a large limousine.

Charges pending. Man crashes stolen pickup

A 23-year-old man will face charges after police say he crashed a stolen truck into a ditch in a homeowner's front yard.

The accident happened around 4:30 a.m. Thursday in the area of Old Sambro Road and Lee Murphy Crescent.

Police say the driver failed to negotiate a turn with the stolen pickup truck and crashed into the ditch, hitting a boulder and some trees along the way.

The driver suffered serious injuries and was rushed to the QEII hospital where he is now under a police guard.

A 50-year-old man from Parrsboro is dead after his vehicle crashed off a back road in Advocate Harbour.

Cumberland County RCMP and emergency crews responded to a report of a single-vehicle crash on a roadway off Highway 209 on Thursday around 12:15 p.m.

Police say it seems that the man failed to make a sharp turn and veered off the road.

RCMP reported he was travelling alone at the time and was pronounced dead at the scene.

Co-workers win big at lottery — on separate weeks

Two prize-winning lottery tickets were sold a week apart in New Minas — and it turns out the winners are co-workers.

Christ Parker and Ernest Lightfoot work together and each won an Atlantic 49 prize of $25,649 in August.

Lightfoot has known about his win for a few weeks now, but Parker only found out after publicity about a missing winner in the area from the Aug. 6 draw.

The Kentville man plays regularly, but often holds on to his tickets for some time before he gets around to checking them. After hearing about the missing winner last week, he decided to check his tickets.

On the first ticket, he won $5, then nothing, nothing, nothing. Finally, on the last ticket, the scanner read, "major winner."

Parker plans to share his winnings with his wife and two daughters and hopes to take a trip south in the future.

The winning ticket was sold at Milne Court Petro Canada in New Minas, which will receive a one per cent seller's prize.

Lightfoot, who won the same amount on Aug. 13, bought his ticket at V.W. Lotto Booth in New Minas, which will also receive the one per cent seller's prize.

Hopscotch festival getting bigger

Urban music. Popular event includes international stars, local talents

STEPHANIE TAYLOR

stephanie.taylor@metronews.ca

Even with international hip-hop stars set to headline this weekend's Hopscotch Urban Arts Festival, organizer and chair Michael McGuire says he's most excited to see Halifax's local talent take the stage.

"We've got an incredibly rich hip-hop community ... it's not something a lot of people realize," he said during a phone interview Thursday.

The fifth annual festival that kicks off Friday and runs until Sunday, will feature more than 100 outdoor performances by local dancers and DJs along the Halifax and Dartmouth waterfronts.

Joining the ranks of Halifax's hip-hop community will be two New York-based DJs performing Saturday night and rapper heavyweights Lil Jon and Tech N9ne, playing at the Cunard Centre Sunday.

"There's something for everybody and it's really top level stuff," McGuire said.

He said the festival —

Lil Jon will be performing at this weekend's Hopscotch Urban Arts Festival which originally began as an idea for a breakdancing competition — has evolved to become a real showcase of hip-hop culture, from beat-boxing to graffiti painting.

"It wouldn't be really fair to have a rap music festival and not include the painters, not include the dancers," he said.

"Every year we've kind of stepped it up. This year is a perfect example," McGuire added, saying the festival will host a drive-in concert Friday night — the first of its kind in Atlantic Canada.

But no matter the lineup, he believes what makes the festival unique remains its focus on youth. Although Halifax is home to a variety of all-ages events and festivities throughout the year, McGuire said Hopscotch is the only one that truly celebrates the urban youth lifestyle.

"Hip-hop culture is youth culture," he said. "We just want to be able to do something young people can enjoy."

Police have called off the ground search for a Nova Scotia man who has been missing since Sept. 9, when he disappeared after being arrested and released on child porn and weapons-related offences.

The car of Charles Slate, 44, was found at the end of Lake John Road in Shelburne Sept. 13.

Intensive searches using dozens of ground search volunteers, Department of Natural Resources, ATV, search dogs, helicopters and RCMP turned up nothing.

"There is nothing above what we have been doing that we can do," said Sgt. Ben Perry with the Shelburne RCMP.

Charges have been laid against a 28-year-old man after a person died when he was found bleeding from the head on a Nova Scotia roadway earlier this month.

RCMP in Enfield were tipped off about a man lying on Highway 215 in South Maitland around 3:15 p.m. on Sept. 13.

They believe he had been a passenger in a vehicle before the suspicious incident took place.

The victim, 48-year-old Arnold Frederick Hubley, was airlifted to the QEII hospital in Halifax in critical condition. Police say he died two days later in hospital.

"Unusual circumstances," RCMP spokesman Sgt. Al LeBlanc said of the case.

"This investigation took a little bit more time than usual to determine the sequence of events."

LeBlanc wouldn't give specifics as to the sequence of those events, saying that any information would have to come out in court.

He did say the person charged was driving the car and two other people were inside, including the victim.

On Thursday, police announced that 28-year-old John Chester Lawrence of Maitland was charged with criminal negligence causing death.

He is also facing one count of failing to remain at the scene of an accident.

McGill football star charged in domestic-violence incident

Luis-Andres Guimont-Mota. Running back accused of assault, uttering threats, but lawyer says he was the victim, not aggressor

The lawyer for a star McGill University football player charged in an alleged case of domestic violence says his client was the victim and not the aggressor.

Luis-Andres Guimont-Mota, 22, was formally arraigned in Montreal on Thursday on charges of assault and uttering threats against his estranged wife. He was immediately released on $300 bail and a host of conditions.

The third-year business management student and starting running back was arrested at a downtown apartment on Wednesday morning.

By late that evening, McGill said the player in question had been immediately suspended as per the university's varsity athletics guidelines.

"What's particular in this case is my client is the victim and not the aggressor, contrary to the cases in the United States," said defence lawyer Steve Hanafi, referring to a spate of domestic violence cases involving NFL players.

Hanafi said the university was too hasty in suspending

Guimont-Mota from the football team and that he and his client would challenge the decision.

"I think they acted too fast just to protect their image and they don't know the facts," he told reporters.

Hanafi said Guimont-Mota is considering filing a cross-complaint against his estranged wife, the alleged victim in the current case.

Canada to help set up global fund to fight maternal, newborn deaths

Canada will contribute to a new international fund to prevent maternal and newborn deaths, part of what Prime Minister Stephen Harper calls his No. 1 foreign-development priority.

Harper and the representatives of several other national governments announced Thursday their plans to help set up a $4-billion US fund to be run by the World Bank.

The Global Financing Facility will aim to build a pool of private-sector money as well, to help reduce mortality rates and to create better data-gathering systems.

Harper made the announcement at the United Nations, pledging $200 million in Canadian money, which will flow from the $3.5 billion he promised earlier this year at a summit held in Canada.

mit held in Canada.

Maternal and newborn deaths have plummeted over the last two decades, but not enough to meet the UN's Millennium Development goals. Harper said he's glad the cause has momentum on its side.

"I'm pleased to see that not only do these meetings keep growing in size, but so do commitments," Harper said, referring to progress since he put the issue on the agenda of a G8 meeting in Muskoka in 2010.

David Morley said the solutions to maternal and newborn deaths are relatively simple — they just require money and political will.

He cited three areas in particular: More trained nurses in outlying communities; better access to telecommunications technology; and cooling equipment to keep vaccines cold during transportation.

Fraud the No. 1 online crime in 2012: StatsCan

A study by Statistics Canada says that police reported 9,084 incidents of cyber-crime in 2012, more than half of which involved fraud.

The agency says that very few online fraudsters were ultimately identified by law enforcement.

About 20 per cent of cybercrimes involved threats, with suspects identified in 55 per cent of the cases.

About 16 per cent of reported cybercrimes — or 1,441 incidents — involved sexual matters, including crimes such as luring and child pornography.

Police identified suspects in 31 per cent of cyber-related sexual violations, and they laid charges in 25 per cent of the incidents.

Overall, there were 33 cybercrimes reported for every 100,000 in the population. THE CANADIAN PRESS

India releases first image of Mars taken by satellite

India's space agency released the first image of the crater-scarred and dry surface of Mars taken by the nation's first interplanetary spacecraft after it began orbiting the red planet.

The image released Thursday was taken when the Martian Orbiter Mission, or MOM, was about 7,300 kilometres from the planet's surface, according to the Indian Space and Research Organisation. The digital data took at least 12 minutes to reach Earth.

Space agency scientists released the image after bringing it to New Delhi to show Prime Minister Narendra Modi, who had spent Wednesday morning witnessing the satellite's last manoeuvre into orbit from the space agency's Mars command centre in the southern city of Bangalore.

The satellite will spend the next six months on an elliptical orbit — coming as close as 365 kilometres and swinging out to 80,000 kilometres at its farthest — as it collects scientific data on the Martian atmosphere.

This image was taken while the Martian Orbiter Mission, or MOM, made it to about 7,300 kilometres from the surface of Mars, according to the Indian Space and Research Organisation. PRESS INFORMATION BUREAU/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

India was enthralled with the mission's success. Indian newspapers on Thursday ran front-page stories and two-page spreads detailing the mission. Museums opened special educational exhibitions. Indian celebrities and politicians commended the rare feat, which only the U.S., former Soviet Union and European Space

Agency have succeeded at before.

NASA on Sunday had its own success in placing its Mars Atmosphere and Volatile Evolution mission, or Maven, in orbit around the planet. There are two other NASA satellites and one ESA craft also now orbiting Mars. Two NASA rovers are on the surface. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Napoleon is now back with his Antosia.

The two amorous donkeys who were separated because of an outcry over their lovemaking have been reunited at a zoo in Poland.

The couple, together for 10 years, got into trouble when mothers expressed outrage that children had to witness their mating. Local conservative official Lydia Dudziak took up their cause and persuaded the director of the zoo in Poznan to have the animals put in separate pens.

The zoo acknowledged making a mistake Thursday and said the donkeys are again in one pen after about a week apart. "It was never our intention for any animals to feel uncomfortable because of their natural behaviours," the zoo said in a statement.

The interruption of the long-standing romance turned into a national news item in Poland in the past days. Nearly 7,000 people signed a petition to have them reunited.

Experts weighed in, saying the separation could hurt their psychological well-being. Politicians were asked about it on the country's leading news programs.

Even the spokesman for Law and Justice, the conservative party that Dudziak belongs to, would not come to her defence.

"It's a level of absurdity ... that has been crossed to such an extent that I don't even want to read or know about this," Adam Hofman said Wednesday evening.

In their decade together, Napoleon and Antosia have produced six offspring, including two-month old Tadeusz. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Gambler saved from prison by a one-armed bandit

Police said Thursday that two officers carrying out routine checks at an arcade in Bochum, Germany, late last week discovered that a man playing a slot machine faced an arrest warrant.

He had been ordered to pay a 710-euro ($1,005) fine or go to prison for 71 days after resisting police during a previous incident.

Police said that as officers informed the man that he faced arrest, the slot machine started to flash and the 37-year-old won a jackpot of 1,000 euros. The man paid his fine on the spot — in cash.

Officers saw missing girl the day before she disappeared

Tina Fontaine.

Winnipeg police are looking into why the 15-year-old was not taken into custody

Winnipeg police confirmed Thursday that two officers came across Tina Fontaine the day before she disappeared and one week before her body was pulled from the Red River. Fontaine, 15, was in a vehicle police pulled over on Aug. 8, more than a week after she was reported missing, but she was not taken into custody.

Police set up a news conference to respond to a report from CTV that said Fontaine was a passenger in a vehicle along with a man who was arrested on suspicion of being impaired. "The two officers have been reassigned to non-operational duties," police Chief Devon Clunis said.

Running away

Tina Fontaine had spent much of her life with her great-aunt, Thelma Favel, on the Sagkeeng First Nation, 75 kilometres north-east of Winnipeg.

- She had a history of running away and went to Winnipeg about a month before her death to visit her biological mother.

Thelma Favel, said Thursday social workers told her that on the night of Aug. 8 — which would be a few hours after police came across Fontaine — Fontaine had passed out in an alley downtown and paramedics took her to a nearby hospital. "They kept her there for about three or four hours until she sobered up a little bit and then (social workers) picked her up from the hospital." That appears to have been the last time she

Child and Family Services has launched an internal investigation into the case as well, but Favel is not expecting anything will change. She said she has received a $500 bill in the mail for Fontaine's ambulance ride to the hospital. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Toronto. Doctors cleared of drugging, sexually assaulting woman

Two Toronto doctors accused of drugging and sexually assaulting a medical student in 2011 in a hotel room after a night of drinking and dancing at a Toronto club have been found not guilty.

Justice Julie Thorburn said while it was agreed that Dr. Amitabh Chauhan and Dr. Suganthan Kayilasanathan had a "sexual encounter" with the woman, she was not satisfied beyond a reasonable doubt that the woman was drugged and did not consent to the encounter.

Thorburn also noted that video surveillance showed the woman "appeared to be in full command of her physical movements" a few minutes before going up to the hotel room where the alleged assault took place.

Woman punched by officer settles for $1.5 million

A woman punched repeatedly by a California Highway Patrol officer on the side of a freeway in an incident caught on video July 1 by a passing driver will receive $1.5 million US in a settlement, and the officer has agreed to resign.

Marlene Pinnock, diagnosed with bipolar disorder, had been off her medication for two to three months before the altercation.

The bulk of the settlement will take the form of a special-needs trust for Pinnock, the CHP said.

Officer Daniel Andrew, who joined the CHP in 2012, has been on paid administrative leave since the incident.

Tiger killed in cat fight at zoo

Gate left unlocked.

Fatal altercation begins while visiting students look on

A group of high school students got a real-life lesson in wild animal behaviour Thursday when they witnessed part of a fatal fight between two tigers at a Winnipeg zoo.

Officials with the Assiniboine Park Zoo said an older Siberian male tiger pushed open a mistakenly unlocked gate and stepped into a neighbouring den housing two younger male cats.

Quoted

"Any tiger ... has the potential to act aggressively in defence of itself."

Dr. Chris Enright, veterinarian

then attacked the older one and, although the fight took place at the rear of the enclosure, it happened in view of any visitors who happened to be at the tiger exhibit.

Margaret Redmond, president of the Assiniboine Zoo Conservancy, told reporters that the students were on a class trip with a teacher.

No visitors were in any danger at any time, she said, and a review of the incident is underway.

The zoo's chief veterinarian, Dr. Chris Enright, said the 19-year-old tiger who died was named Baikal and had been at the zoo for about five years.

The neighbouring den houses a pair of younger tigers, two-year-old brothers named Samkha and Vasili.

Vasili, the one who killed Baikal, was likely defending his turf, said Enright.

"Any tiger — they're a 350-pound predator — has the potential to act aggressively in defence of itself," he said.

The police chief in the St. Louis suburb where an officer fatally shot an unarmed 18-year-old last month released a video Thursday apologizing to the family and the community, acknowledging that Michael Brown's body remained in the street for too long after he was killed.

Brown, who was black, was fatally shot Aug. 9 during a confrontation with a white police officer.

Brown's body remained in the street for more than four hours. At the time, police said they needed the time to gather evidence.

The video featuring Ferguson Police Chief Tom Jackson was released on the same day Brown's parents were in Washington pressing for a federal investigation into the shooting.

Just 'digging around' North Korean prison

Matthew Miller. U.S. man sentenced to six years of hard labour says he mostly does agricultural work

An American man recently sentenced by North Korea to six years of hard labour says he is digging in fields eight hours a day and kept in isolation, but so far he is still in good health.

Under close guard and with only enough time to answer one question, 24-year-old Matthew Miller spoke briefly to The Associated Press at a Pyongyang hotel where he had been brought to call his family.

It was his first appearance since he was convicted Sept. 14 of entering the country illegally to commit espionage.

"Prison life is eight hours of work per day. Mostly it's been agriculture, like in the dirt, digging around," Miller said when asked what conditions were like in prison.

At Miller's 90-minute trial, North Korea's Supreme Court said Miller tore up his tourist visa upon arriving in Pyongyang on April 10 and declared his ambition to experience prison life so he could secretly investigate North Korea's human rights situation.

Miller is one of three Americans detained in North Korea. Jeffrey Fowle, arrested in May for leaving a Bible at a sailor's club, faces a future court date. Kenneth Bae was sentenced to 15 years of hard labour in 2013.

Robert King, the U.S. special envoy for North Korean human rights issues, said Pyongyang has not accepted American offers to send a high-level envoy to seek release of the three men. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Scotiabank Toronto Waterfront Marathon takes over the majority of the downtown as 25,000 runners take part in October 2013. RICK MADONIK/TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

Who will win the race? After a slow start, the running event biz has hit its stride — but now it's do-or-die time for organizers scrapping it out

melissa.dunne@metronews.ca

A sea of hipsters wait in T-shirts, headbands and sunglasses. Soon, their bright white shirts will look like the inside of a Skittles bag.

They look pleased. After all, most paid about $60 a pop to be popped with brightly coloured powder during a five-kilometre run earlier this month in downtown Vancouver.

Across town, another sea of runners in rainbow-bright clothes and shoes are readying for a timed 10-km road race.

It's clearly do-or-die time for running event organizers scrapping it out in the booming running events business.

It wasn't always this way.

Back in 1963 at Calgary's first marathon, a mere 19 men showed up, and only 12 finished. This year, more than 15,000 people took part. In 1975, 144 men and two women ran Ottawa's marathon. This May, 4,436 men and 2,599 women ran the marathon. And overall, 47,827 people participated in six events during Ottawa Race Weekend.

It's the same story coast-to-coast. While it took years for traditional road races to slowly build up their events, new events seem to have quickly sprinted to the head of the pack.

The Color Run, LLC held its first event in Arizona in 2012.

Charity

- Some for-profit runs, like the Canada Running Series, have a separate non-profit foundation. Others donate a small amount of money to charity directly.
- But the majority of money for charity via runs (whether a non-profit or not) is raised by individual runners.

In 2013, the for-profit company hosted roughly 170 events in more than 30 countries.

The Color Run (which has not added a "u" in deference to our spelling) held five events in Canada in 2013. This year, it grew to eight events, and plans to expand again next year.

About 60 per cent of participants in the untimed "fun runs" are first-time runners, according to a Color Run spokesperson.

The for-profit Tough Mudder LLC tends to attract more seasoned runners. Since it started in 2010, more than 100 Tough Mudders have been held around the globe. The 18- to 20-km events include obstacles such as: mud, freezing-cold ice, electricity and fire. A cross-section of CrossFitters, gym rats and runners in Canada have plunked down about $139.99 to $199.99 (plus fees and taxes) to take part in the gruelling event. In 2012, the business co-founded by a Harvard Business School grad brought in $70 million US in revenue, according to New York Magazine.

Alan Brookes, the director of the Canada Running Series Inc., is not worried about all the new competition.

"We're passionate believers in doing one thing well," says Brookes from Vancouver, where he was hosting the Vancouver Eastside 10K. "We are sticking to the traditional, complete road race and leaving the mud and colour to others."

The for-profit Canada Running Series holds a total of eight races in Toronto, Montreal and Vancouver every year. Its marquee event, the Scotiabank Toronto Waterfront Marathon (STWM), has hit its stride — celebrating 25 years this year and on pace to hit record numbers of participants.

The STWM began as the Coors Light Toronto Half-Marathon — part of a "six-pack" of races in a nod to the sponsor.

In 1990, about 1,500 people took part. In the last five years the number of participants at the STWM (which now includes a 5-km run, half-marathon and full marathon) has risen almost 400 per cent, with about 25,000 expected on Oct. 19.

Lately, it's condo-dwelling millennials of both genders that are pushing the phenomenal growth, Brookes says.

And companies are jockeying for a prominent spot at these events so they can market their product or brand to the swelling crowds of young, fit and well-heeled runners. Brands have such a strong presence that some runs look like NASCAR races.

Being a part of these feel-good events is worth a lot to companies.

In 2008, Richard Branson's group paid about $30 million in a five-year deal to sponsor London's not-for-profit marathon. It's now called the Virgin Money London Marathon.

Eye-popping deals like that seem to have encouraged a slew of newbies to give putting on an event a shot. Many quickly hit a wall.

Earlier this month, Runner's World Magazine reported some theme and obstacle events have failed lately, with insiders pointing to "organizer's inexperience and unanticipated costs."

Heather Wall has experienced what she says was a poorly executed event firsthand.

The über-fit Ottawa mom runs in about a dozen events per year, including the Canada Army Run in Ottawa last weekend. Two years ago she tried a local obstacle endurance event.

"It was not well organized," says Wall. "It left a bad taste in my mouth."

Among other things, she says it was not clear the event was solely a for-profit venture and she worried about the safety of runners as she believes there was not sufficient medical help on site.

"I'm glad I did it, but I would never do it again," says Wall.

A safe event is something runners like Wall keep top-of-mind.

In 2012, a man drowned at a Tough Mudder in West Virginia. The death was ruled accidental. The man's family have since filed a lawsuit.

In the mad dash to cash in, some of these events will trip up and drop out along the way. In the long run, runners like Wall will determine which events get a second wind.

The Running Room

Free clinics mean big money

Every Sunday morning the true believers gather to worship in the running temples John Stanton built.

The former two-pack-a-day smoker started the Running Room in 1984. The first store was literally a room in a house in Edmonton.

Thirty years later, there are about 1,500 staffers and 128 stores in North America.

Since the start, Stanton has preached about inclusiveness and community.

The stores generally run free clinics every Wednesday night and Sunday morning that anyone can attend. Plus, the stores offer several training clinics for $69.99 in Canada, which are sponsored by running shoe companies, such as New Balance and Saucony.

"The clinics are a little bit self-serving," Stanton freely admits in a phone interview from Edmonton. It's a mutually beneficial relationship, he says. Customers get fit and meet like-minded people and the store builds a strong relationship with customers and sells them a new pair of running shoes every now and then.

Competitors are starting to see the light. Vancouver's Lululemon Athletica Inc. and MEC (formerly Mountain Equipment Co-op) are among the growing number of retailers now offering free running groups and sponsoring running events, too.

Color Me Rad saw well over a thousand people run the five-kilometre race. The running boom has been a boon to gadget makers. Scan the photo with your Metro News app to see a gallery of the latest products making the rounds among runners. STEFANIA SECCIA/FOR METRO IN VANCOUVER FILE

The baby boomers had Woodstock, millennials get PotatoStock 2014

Zack Brown, the man behind the potato salad Kickstarter campaign is photographed on Sept. 18 in Columbus, Ohio. Brown is planning PotatoStock 2014, an all-ages, charity-minded party Saturday in downtown Columbus featuring bands, food trucks, beer vendors, potato-sack races and definitely potato salad. His effort on Kickstarter in early July to buy potato salad ingredients took on a life of its own and attracted worldwide attention as the amount grew. The 31-year-old jokingly sought $10 US from the crowdfunding website to pay for his first attempt at making potato salad and eventually raised $55,492. ## New report. Forcing a pick-and-pay TV model futile, is coming anyway Forcing TV service providers to offer their customers television channels on a pick-and-pay basis would be a waste of time, a new study says.

The C.D. Howe Institute report released Thursday says ever-changing technology will soon put viewers squarely in the driver's seat, allowing them to choose everything they watch one program at a time.

And it suggests it would be better for regulators to determine whether broadcasters should continue to be required to fund the production of Canadian content.

The study also opposes the idea of forcing new video-distribution services, such as Netflix, to pay into funds that subsidize such content.

Entitled Let the Market Decide: The Case Against Mandatory Pick-and-Pay, the study comes as the Canadian Radio-television and Telecommunications Commission conducts a comprehensive review of how consumers get their TV programming and how they pay for it.

The Harper government has been promoting the pick-and-pay model as good for consumers.

Drones for moviemaking get FAA approval

The government granted six movie and television production companies permission to use drones for filming, an important step toward greater use of the technology by commercial operators, Transportation Secretary Anthony Foxx announced Thursday.

Dozens of other industries are lined up to follow Hollywood's lead. Until now, the Federal Aviation Administration, which is part of the Transportation Department, had banned commercial drone operations with the exception of a lone oil company in Alaska. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Is Bash bug worse than Heartbleed?

Uh-oh. Experts are divided over whether the latest security flaw will cause more chaos than the Heartbleed bug

New warnings are emerging of a security flaw known as the "Bash" bug, which cyber experts say may pose a serious threat to devices using Unix-based operating systems such as Linux and Mac OS X.

Beyond computers, devices ranging from home Internet routers to systems used to run factory floors and power plants to medical equipment could be affected.

The Department of Homeland Security's Computer Emergency Readiness Team in the U.S. issued a warning about the vulnerability this week. Experts are divided over whether the bug could pose a bigger threat than the Heartbleed computer security flaw discovered earlier this year.

Security company Rapid7 said that while the vulnerability "looks pretty awful at first glance," hackers will not be able to exploit most systems running the affected Bash software. The Heartbleed bug exploited a key piece of security technology used by hundreds of thousands of websites. For more than two years before it was discovered, the flaw exposed passwords and other sensitive data to hackers who could steal that information.

The reason the Bash bug could be worse than Heartbleed is because it gives the attacker a bigger advantage than Heartbleed did, said Tod Beardsley, engineering manager at Rapid7. With Heartbleed, attackers could get an information leak. With the Bash bug, they can get "remote code execution," a way to take control of the affected device to install programs or run commands, he said. The bug is rated a maximum 10 out of 10 for its impact and ease of exploitability by the Common Vulnerability Scoring System, an industry standard for assessing how bad security flaws are.

4 Assiniboine Park Zoo. This Winnipeg zoo had to temporarily close its underwater polar bear viewing tunnel after the bears chewed the silicone sealant around the tunnel's glass. "It just shows you when you're working with live animals, anything can happen at any time," said a zoo spokesperson. Exactly.

5 Emma Watson. The actress and UN Women Goodwill Ambassador gave a game-changing speech on feminism and gender at the UN Headquarters in N.Y.C. to launch the "HeForShe" campaign, which aims to galvanize one billion men and boys as advocates for ending the inequalities that women and girls face around the world. Best thing ever.

6 Teleporter travel. Marriott Hotels has created a virtual travel experience — a mobile travel booth launched in N.Y.C. with live-action, 4D video and sensory elements to deliver the feeling of actually being in Hawaii and London. Once they figure out every other getaway destination in the world, we'll no longer have to travel. Yes, the future of travel is no travel.

7 CBC's ComedyCoup. Starting Oct. 2, over 10 weeks, comedy creators from across Canada will create hundreds of hilarious videos to submit to the ComedyCoup competition. They advance by getting social media support and feedback from their fans. The winner gets a $500,000 half-hour TV special on CBC. And we get lots of laughs.

Gorilla groupie

Terri Tacheny plays once a month for an appreciative primate audience that ambles down to the fence as soon as Tacheny begins setting up her harp.

Great apes enjoy harp music at Minnesota zoo every month

Harpist Terri Tacheny long enjoyed taking her young daughters to Como Zoo in St. Paul, Minn., except for the Primate House, where she thought the gorillas, orangutans and monkeys seemed a little lethargic.

Her solution: A little music.

Now Tacheny, a zoo volunteer, plays once a month for an appreciative audience that ambles down to the barrier as soon as Tacheny begins setting up her beautifully carved wooden harp. She's been doing it for nearly a decade.

As the shimmering sounds of Tacheny's harp drift through the leafy zoo, a male gorilla stares through the fence at the musician, then chews contentedly on vegetation. Families stop to snap pictures.

Quoted

"I don't speak gorilla, but there's a gorilla purr that occurs when I begin to play. And that's their happy sound."

Harpist Terri Tacheny

A therapeutic harpist, Tacheny plays for hospital patients to help them deal with pain and anxiety.

She thought if the soothing sounds helped to calm humans, it would work for the primates too.

Tami Murphy, a zookeeper at Como, said Tacheny has played for all the animals at the zoo. Some animals appear ambivalent, Murphy said, but the harp music "seems to be a really calming thing for the apes to listen."

Tacheny says she's never gotten a negative review from her ape audience. "I've never had anything thrown at me," she said.

Tool Time with a few twists

Reel Guys

RICHARD CROUSE AND MARK BRESLIN

Denzel Washington returns to the action genre with The Equalizer. Scan this photo using the Metro News app to see the movie's fast-paced trailer. CONTRIBUTED

Synopsis

Washington plays a home improvement store worker by day, righter of wrongs by night. He's a former black ops commando trying to leave his violent ways in the past but just when he thought that part of his life was over, the Russian mob leans on him because he tried to protect a young woman (Chloë Grace Moretz) from her violent pimp. When he singlehandedly wipes out the East Coast wing of the Russian mob, Teddy (Marton Csokas) — an enforcer from Moscow — arrives to put an end to McCall's one-man search for justice.

• Richard: ●●●●

• Mark: ●●●●

The Equalizer. Denzel Washington's acting chops carry this thriller about a man with a regular life who is pretty talented in using tools as weapons of mass destruction

Richard: Mark, The Equalizer is more elegant than Liam Neeson's recent action movies but less viscerally satisfying.

All the elements of Neeson's Eurotrash thrillers are in place — tattooed bad guys and the “seasoned” hero with a “special set of skills” — but the pace is much slower. The point of the story is that McCall equalizes situations, using his talents to help the downtrodden, but it takes about 30 minutes before any settling of scores happens.

We meet McCall, learn about his orderly life but we don't learn anything about his past. He's Denzel and ergo, a badass, but the first half-hour of this movie could have snapped things up a bit by illuminating his past.

Mark: Richard, withholding information must be what passes for suspense in this thriller.

But I can accept a slow burn off the top if the rest of the movie ignites.

But the plot and tone of the movie is standard stuff, as you say. What lifts the rote material into the stratosphere is Denzel, who is such a good actor we forget we're watching an expensive Steven Seagal flick.

RC: It is a slow burn that does build some tension, and by the time McCall unleashes hell on the Russian mobsters, it comes as a bit of a catharsis. Now the movie is rolling!

Except that it isn't.

It takes ages for McCall to open another can of whoop-ass. Instead director Antoine Fuqua has elected to gradually build up to a wild showdown in a massive hardware store.

Who knew those places were so dangerous?

The climax is tense and inventive — apparently there is no home improvement device that cannot be turned into a WMD — but it is a more standard blockbuster-movie ending than you might expect from a movie so stingy with the action in the first hour.

MB: Homeowners ... killing homeowners, as the jingle sorta goes.

I liked the set piece at the end; it was very well directed, and I have no quibble with the technical virtuosity of the movie.

Denzel's taciturn hero is mysterious and engaging. But when I thought about it, all of the hero's efforts to eliminate the Russian mob in Boston would only result in the ascendancy of the Irish mob. And what's Bill Pullman doing in the movie with three lines?

Time to fire his agent?

RC: Pullman did have the nicer house, though, so I guess that counts for something.

Overall it's a good movie and Denzel is, as always, charismatic and interesting, but as he says, paraphrasing Hemingway, if “the old man gotta be the old man,” then The Equalizer gotta be more of an action movie to be completely satisfying.

MB: I might say the violence was often gratuitous, but there's not much of a movie without it.

Examining Xavier Dolan's Oedipal world

Mommy. Director talks about his fascination with mothers and sons and making films about them

scene@metronews.ca

"I have no culture. I'm ignorant. I have a high school diploma and I've seen eight films."

Quite the admission from Quebec's boy wonder Xavier Dolan who has accrued 36 awards with just five major features since 2009. I Killed My Mother, Heartbeats, Laurence Anyways, Tom at the Farm and his latest Mommy catapulted him onto the world stage at Cannes, four winning major prizes. Dolan is hands-on in all elements of his films and has a successful acting and voice-over career. Dolan says he has no culture, but it's clear he creates it. And he's just 25.

Mommy finds us in familiar Dolan mother/son territory. The widowed Diane (Anne Dor-val) and her violent, mentally ill teenaged son Steve (Antoine-Olivier Pilon) find it hard to function together or integrate into society. They are perpetual youngsters in a love-hate relationship that recalls his 2009 film I Killed My Mother. "I was ready to go back to mother and sons and I realized I'd never left them," says Dolan. "They'd always been in my movies somehow, sometimes in the background and sometimes in the spotlight. I Killed My Mother was about schemes compared to Mommy, which is really about an existential crisis between two people who love each other more than the world. They love each other so much they cannot live together."

Dolan picked the word Mommy from all the terms for mother as it describes their refusal to grow up. "Mommy is what children call their moms. They don't say ma, or mom or mother except if you're on the Titanic. They say mommy when they're really small. Both Die and Steve are two children; they're just babies. Die is an eternal teenager and Steve just will never be a grown-up; he's a little baby."

Mommy is set in a "fictionalized Canada" in which a parent may deposit an incorrigible child in an institution indefinitely. "The thing about mental illness is that it is unpredictable. Steve doesn't think, 'Well, I'm going to go home and burn the house down.' He's a good kid, but he's a ticking bomb. He does not control his outbursts. It's important for me to portray how unpredictable relationships are when mental illness is in the household."

Dolan stars in the upcoming psychological drama The Elephant Song in which he's confined to a psychiatric hospital. And he's reportedly starring opposite Taylor Lautner in Gus Van Sant's untitled project based on a New Yorker Magazine article.

Not so long ago, Dolan complained of sitting around waiting for the phone to ring and petting his cat. "It sure has changed. First I'm allergic to cats, I stopped doing laundry, I just buy new briefs, I travel so much I don't have time to wash them."

Mommy, which opens in select theatres next Friday, has been submitted in the best foreign language film category at the Academy Awards. TORSTAR

Geeks of the world, you're about to fall in love with Genesis Rodriguez. There's no point in resisting. The actress, appearing in Kevin Smith's totally insane Tusk, used to be part of an all-girl BattleBots team. Her words, not ours.

"We were an all-girls robotics team. We looked like we were kick-ass, cool-ass girls who had ribbons in their hair but were like, 'We're going to kick your ass!'" Rodriguez tells Metro. "We did competitions, like national competitions. We went to the Kennedy Space Center, we went to a convention in Oklahoma. I was involved with the pneumatics of the robot. I wasn't so much into getting the precise degree and cuts of angles and things

— I was a welder."

Yes, welding. Rodriguez thinks women have the edge when it comes to that particular trade. "I think girls make better welders than men because we take time with our tacks and our welds, we're detailed and we make it look pretty," she says with a laugh. "It's fun. Just the smell of it is just ... I love the oil. The light, it's hypnotizing. You could be there all day just looking at it. It's kind of cool. But yeah, building robots was super-awesome."

Rodriguez acknowledges that when people first look at her, they might not immediately think "welding" and "robots," but that's their loss. "It's not something that you'd expect, but it was just a fun time. You're actually thinking something in your head and then executing it and actually seeing it done. I think it's just a really cool school program that should be promoted more. And you're having fun with your friends and working on a crocodile robot. How cool is that?"

So what was it her kick-ass team created? "Basically, it was really a tough robot, a crocodile," she explains. "It was built at an angle, so it would come under you and just chomp you down into pieces and break you down. So even if you're a bigger robot in size, it could just scoop you from under — trip it and kill it."

And if robots aren't enough for you, she's also an avid Shark Week aficionado, something that helped her build more appreciation for the massive beast at the centre of Tusk, the walrus. "I was watching Shark Week this last time, and I realized that sharks do not mess with walrus. They don't," she says.

Spike Lee. Filmmaker picks up Pioneer award at Montreal black film fest

Spike Lee has been described as one of the angriest filmmakers in the United States, but he jokingly suggested Wednesday he was worried about a bit of ire coming his way during a news conference in Montreal.

"We're not going to talk about the Rangers beating the Habs last year, are we?" said the diehard sports fan, referring to the Montreal Canadiens' elimination from last season's Stanley Cup playoffs at the hands of his hometown New York team.

"We're not bringing that up?"

Lee didn't have to worry. He appeared at the Montreal International Black Film Festival where he was to be presented with the event's first Pioneer award by P.K. Subban, the Habs co-captain.

"He's a great player," Lee said before the award ceremony, adding he watched Subban play in New York last season and waved at him during the pre-game skate.

"I've noticed a lot more players of colour in the National Hockey League. The Rangers need to get one."

Spike Lee cracked jokes about the New York Rangers beating the Montreal Canadiens during his visit to Montreal Wednesday. THE CANADIAN PRESS

The ceremony was to precede the Canadian premiere of Lee's new film Da Sweet Blood of Jesus, a romantic horror comedy.

The event coincides with the 25th anniversary of Lee's landmark film Do the Right Thing, about racial tensions in Brooklyn.

Lee acknowledged a lot has changed in the last 25 years.

"Twenty-five years ago, I would have never thought there would be an African-American president," he said.

"That's something that happened, so there have been many great developments. But there are more African-Americans who are in poverty now than there were back 25 years ago and police are still killing black people."

He also pointed out that while there are more black stars, "black people are not taking over Hollywood."

Lee, who is credited with helping revolutionize modern black cinema, said there is still a need for more diversity — including more women, Asians, and Hispanics — on TV and behind the scenes in TV and movies.

What's sauce for the boss is epic eating

Epic Meal Empire.

YouTube stars serve up gut-busting fare on new television series

The four guys behind Epic Meal Empire have devoured cheeseburger-stuffed lasagna, pizza cupcakes and Tex-Mex sushi. So what's the grossest thing they've ever eaten?

"Dried apricots and dried papayas," says founder Harley Morenstein with disgust.

The Montreal-based kitchen crew genuinely loves calorie-laden comfort food. And after racking up 600 million YouTube views for their Epic Meal Time videos, they're bringing their passion for gut-busting concoctions to the small screen.

In Epic Meal Empire, airing Mondays on FYI, the gang moves to Los Angeles and cooks up artery-clogging fare for "extreme-food clients" — i.e. anyone with an excuse to consume meals that should probably only be eaten once in a lifetime.

The crew, led by "Sauce Boss" Morenstein and his friends Josh Elkin, Ameer Atari and Dave Heuff, sees moving from YouTube to TV as a natural progression.

"I don't mind saying that I like Epic Meal Empire better than Epic Meal Time," declared Morenstein, 29, in an interview.

Back in 2010, he was a substitute high school teacher in his hometown of Montreal when he began experimenting in video production. Epic Meal Time was born when he and his friends created an elaborate "cheat meal" — ironically, amid efforts to promote health and fitness.

"After the first episode,

I substituted the following week. The show had gotten a lot of traction," he recalled. "The kids were like, 'Oh sir, I saw you drinking on the Internet!' ... I kind of lost the children that day."

Two weeks later, the number of online views were so staggering that Morenstein quit his teaching job. After hundreds of episodes, two cookbooks and six million YouTube subscribers, the crew turned their attention to TV.

Morenstein said several networks were interested, but in the end they chose "contemporary lifestyle" channel FYI, a recent rebrand of Shaw Media's Twist and A&E's Biography.

"They let us do what we want, which is the best part of being on FYI," he said. "They were the ones that really put the trust in us. They picked up 16 episodes right off the bat. That was enough for us to want to commit to that network."

"Now, the show is exactly what we want. It's something we're proud of. It's hilarious. I think it's an awesome show."

In the first episode, a second-grade teacher invites the guys to make her students a "fantasy meal," a break from eating boring old healthy food. They build a "Taterbot," a giant robot made of Tater Tots, licorice and grilled cheese.

Other wild concoctions in the show: A Cinnabon battleship with a cream cheese frosting churro cannon, an eight-foot chicken (made of chicken tenders and 100 eggs) on roller skates and an edible car they also claim is "driveable."

A bigger budget allows the guys to be more imaginative with their meals, but network television has its drawbacks. The Jack Daniel's-guzzling foursome can't drink on camera, which they flout in the premiere by taking a shot off screen.

Video game review

Disney Infinity 2.0. Marvel Super Heroes

For. Xbox 360/PS3/Xbox One/PS4/Wii U

Rated. Everyone 10+

If you have to buy toys to play a video game, it had better be awesome. This is The Incredibles play set from last year. It uses the same city and button-mashing style of missions, but with the heroes and villains swapped out for Marvel replacements. True, The Avengers have different abilities, but given that last year's set included three five-hour adventures and this just one, it's all disappointingly similar. Building custom worlds is more rewarding.

3 songs for the weekend

A Taqwacore single, a lush tune from a man with selfie-mania and an Australian singer-songwriter who's getting lots of buzz

Sound Check

ALAN CROSS

True/
Selfieman

This one-man electronic band from Moscow was inspired by "selfie-mania," which (in Russia, at least) is "a mental disorder typical for a person who can't stop himself from taking selfies." Sound familiar?

Banana/
The Kominas

This group of Pakistani ex-pats live and work in Boston, where they practise a form of rock called Taqwacore, which is a form of Muslim punk. This is their latest single.

Known Better/
Meg Mac

This 23-year-old Melbourne singer-songwriter has been getting lots of attention at home in Australia, thanks to her blend of dramatic pop and American blues. Her debut EP, Meg Mac, came out earlier this month.

See that symbol? It means you can scan this image with your Metro News app to listen to Alan's recommended songs this week.

Peter Pan Live! Walken
the plank as Captain Hook

Christopher Walken will play one-handed antagonist Captain Hook in NBC's Dec. 4 show Peter Pan Live!, producer Neil Meron has revealed on Twitter. The broadcast is to star Allison Williams (Girls) as Peter Pan.

Hook still sports the long-haired, moustached look of his 1953 Disney cartoon compatriot, complete with garish red coat, but this time swaps white ruffles for a golden garment and dark undershirt, contrasting with the green-clad Pan.

Newcomers Taylor Louderman and Alanna Saunders play Wendy Darling and Tiger Lily respectively, while Christian Borle (The Sound of Music Live!) and five-time Tony nominee Kelli O'Hara are also involved. AFP

Rock or Bust

No more shaking it all night long for
AC/DC guitarist

Malcolm Young, one of the founding members of legendary Australian rockers AC/DC, has retired due to health issues but the band will press ahead with a world tour next year, they announced Thursday.

The high-voltage group, one of the highest-grossing bands of all time, was founded by brothers Malcolm and Angus Young in 1973, and has gone on to sell more than 200 million albums.

In announcing a new record Rock or Bust, they said that guitarist Young, 61, would not be returning to the lineup after he took a break earlier this year due to unspecified ill health. AFP

Lucky Luciano looks for a new dream

Boardwalk Empire. Vincent Piazza reflects on acclaimed series as it airs its final season

Vincent Piazza is pondering his next move. His critically acclaimed series, Boardwalk Empire, created by Terence Winter and executive produced by Martin Scorsese, is in its fifth and final season on HBO Canada (Sundays, 9 p.m. EDT.)

Piazza, 38, plays Charles "Lucky" Luciano, a leading Mafia figure in the United States. "It's like my dream ended here. Now I need to re-dream something else," he said.

One possibility is writing. "I love writing. I love telling stories, and I'm going to try and give a crack at that for a bit." In a recent interview, Piazza shared his thoughts on co-star Steve Buscemi and what he kept from the set.

Where were you when you got the role?

I was in a little room in my (New York) apartment on 17th Street. I remember getting the call and I was just, 'Wow.' It was a wow moment, and then I had all this energy and excitement to begin, and I was like, 'All right, when does it start?' 'Like in six months.' And I was like, 'Oh.'

And that's when I became a bookworm and was watching every documentary, reading every biography, just went to work in trying to learn more about the time.

What did you learn from Steve Buscemi?

Steve has been so gracious to me and all the actors that I get to see him interact with, and he's such a great leader.

As an example, it was the first episode that we were shooting of the entire show, and I'm a huge Steve Buscemi fan, but I'm also getting the feel of it. I don't know the hours, I don't know a TV schedule that well.

So, I was just getting to know everyone and spending time with the actors and the crew, and I look over and I see Steve just in his chair, his eyes closed, just sitting there. I go, 'Oh, interesting. He wants time to himself. OK, anyway, carrying on ...'

But by the 12th hour, 13th hour, 16th hour of the day,

And I was like, 'Wow.' Those little things, you know, you pick up along the way. Just conserve your energy, stay focused.

Yeah, there was a lot of great stuff that I learned by watching him, as well as talking with him.

Did you keep anything from the set?

I kept my cigarette lighter because it was with me from the pilot. It took me about a year to not burn myself whenever I clicked it, because it's an old lighter. You've got to flick it and try and look cool like, 'I've used this lighter all my life, since I was four when I started smoking.'

So we have this relationship, the lighter and I, and it's been with me the whole way, always in my pocket or in the scene, so, yeah, it's my little buddy.

There was actually a moment last season when I was sitting back in the chair ... and I'm just staring at the monitor, and I looked and was like, 'We're in a moving oil painting.' It is just so rich in colour and texture. It was really special.

Mary-Kate swaps Cartier rock for band of gold, leading to marry chase

Guys, we really dropped the ball on this one. Everyone's been so focused on George Clooney getting married that we may have missed Mary-Kate Olsen's wedding altogether. The 28-year-old actress, designer and Wonder Twin was spotted this week in the Hamptons with her fiancé, 45-year-old French banker Olivier Sarkozy, both of them sporting what look like gold wedding bands — and the massive Cartier diamond ring Olsen used to wear was nowhere in sight. Which begs the question: Is there such a thing as a hobo chic wedding dress? And what self-respecting billionaire hangs out in the Hamptons after Labour Day?

Miles Teller delivers two wildly Divergent tales

Looks like Miles Teller is engaging in a little bit of he said ... he also said. The Spectacular Now star told W magazine that he felt "dead inside" while filming Divergent, which didn't sit very well with fans of the franchise. "I didn't have an interesting part, and I'd taken the film for business reasons," he told the magazine. And you know who else wasn't very happy with the stuff Miles Teller said? Miles Teller. ## Someone was feeding Lohan lines? Say it ain't so

Metro in Hollywood

Depending on who you ask, Lindsay Lohan either had a great first night or a terrible first night during her London stage debut. Previews started this week for David Mamet's Speed-the-Plow, and the first review, from the Daily Beast, is not terribly kind. "On the first night of previews, a work-in-progress feel is to be expected," Nico Hines writes. "But halfway through the second act of Speed-the-Plow, the audience was openly laughing at Lohan's struggle to grasp Mamet's sharp, trademark dialogue." Some audience members had fun with the gaffes, like Rafay Agha, who tweeted, "Major kudos to the woman who was feeding Lindsay Lohan her lines from offstage." But a tweet from one of her fans tells a different story. "According to all attendees of (Speed-the-Plow), Lindsay Lohan owned her part. As if doubt were plausible," writes Peyton Pittman. I just don't know who to believe anymore.

What's a little fur play between friends like Bowie and Jagger?

Turns out the compulsion to make everything fur-lined in the 1970s was more about function than form — at least at David Bowie's place. According to a new biography by Wendy Leigh, Bowie and his then-wife, Angela, had a four-foot-deep, fur-lined play area in their London flat affectionately dubbed "the pit" that was used for the some spectacular feats of sexual strength. The Bowies "used to have the most amazing orgies at Oakley Street. Everybody f—ing everybody in the pit. Mick Jagger used to come there and be involved with sexual things," Leigh writes. To be fair, though, I feel like Jagger could get business cards printed up that list his profession as "involved with sexual things."

While her pal the Situation is tangling with the IRS over tax fraud, former Jersey Shore star Nicole "Snooki" Polizzi has more important things on her mind — namely her bust. Polizzi tells Life & Style that once all her baby-birthing out of the way, Mama's getting a new set of ta-tas. "I would definitely get a boob job. I want to get that after I have all my kids," she says. But that doesn't mean she'd go in for liposuction. "I feel like you can just go to the gym and work that s— off," she says.

The smell of baked apples — plus cinnamon and brown sugar — is simply amazing.

Want to fill your house with that delicious goodness?

Bake up a batch of my Apple Crisp Muffins, which deliver all the flavours of a classic crisp in a breakfast-friendly muffin.

Topping

1. In a bowl, combine the rolled oats, brown sugar, flour and melted butter. Set aside.

2. In a skillet, sauté the apples in the butter for about 5 minutes. Allow to cool.

Muffins

1. Preheat the oven to 350 F (180 C). Line a 12-well muffin pan with paper liners.

2. In another bowl, combine the flour, baking powder and cinnamon. Set aside.

3. In another bowl, cream butter and sugar with mixer until light and fluffy. Add eggs and vanilla. Beat until smooth.

4. With a wooden spoon, stir dry ingredients into butter and sugar mixture alternately with the milk. Add the diced apples. Spoon the batter into the wells.

5. Place 3 pieces of uncooked apples on each muffin and top with the oatmeal mixture. Press lightly with your fingers.

6. Bake in the middle of the oven for about 20 to 25 minutes or until a toothpick inserted in the centre of a muffin comes out clean. FOLLOW RICARDO ON SOCIAL MEDIA AND ON RICARDOCUISINE.COM OR SUBSCRIBE TO HIS MAGAZINE'S UP-COMING ENGLISH EDITION, WHICH LAUNCHED THIS SEPTEMBER!

Myths of French grapes

LIQUID ASSETS
Peter Rockwell
@therealwineguy

French wines have an image problem.

No matter how closely associated the country is with fermented grape juice, it struggles to shake the myth that it only makes wine for rich experts and not the average oenophile.

While its wines can get pricey, those big guns make up a paltry percentage of its total output.

You can easily find wine from France for the same price as your fave bottle from Australia or Italy.

Other misconceptions about French wines are that their labels are hard to understand, their flavours are too aggressive and they're only meant to be drunk with food.

Though there may be a wee bit of truth to all three complaints, don't let that intimidate you.

Ripe, balanced and fruit-forward, the wines from the southern regions are a great introduction (or reintroduction) to France.

Fucale back with 'what it really takes' to succeed

QMHL. Canadiens prospect looks to help Mooseheads win first home game of season

KRISTEN LIPSCOMBE
kristen.lipscombe@metronews.ca

Zachary Fucale may have been one of a half-dozen goaltenders at this year's Montreal Canadiens training camp, but for the Halifax Mooseheads, he's the one expected to get the job done between the pipes.

Fucale, selected 36th overall by the Canadiens in the second round of the 2013 NHL entry draft, has returned to Halifax after a couple of weeks spent in Montreal, first skating with the rookies, and then sticking around for a few days with the big boys.

"I'm very satisfied and proud of what I achieved during camp," the Rosemère, Que., native said Thursday after his first practice back on Scotiabank Centre ice.

"I came out stronger than I came in," he said, "and as a better goalie, better person and better teammate."

The Canadiens sent the 19-year-old netminder back to the Mooseheads in time to start Friday's home game against the Chicoutimi Saguenéens, which starts at 7 p.m. Fucale, who struggled at times in the QMJHL playoffs last year, was the first player released from Montreal prior to pre-season play.

But Fucale, who was named to the 2012 QMJHL All-Rookie Team and has represented Canada at the under-18 and junior levels, keeps it in perspective and take it all in stride — lessons learned from his array of on-ice experiences.

"We're feeling good," Fucale said of the Herd. "I'm glad to be back with the team."

Feeling good, despite Fucale having to watch from afar as the Moose lost two straight at home last weekend, a 3-0 shutout to the Moncton Wildcats on Friday, followed by a 6-5 overtime disappointment to the Saint John Sea Dogs on Saturday.

Zach Fucale of Rosemère, Que., on attending Montreal Canadiens training camp

"We get to learn about (adversity) right away, so I think it's going to help us," Fucale said.

Also expected to help out are defenceman Matt Murphy, 19, and forward Philippe Gadoury, 20, who are making comebacks of their own from Ottawa Senators main camp and Canadiens rookie camp, respectively.

"All we have to do is prepare for that first action," Fucale said of tonight's puck drop. "All that matters for me is that first shot ... (and) for the guys, that first shift."

After that, it's just a matter of staying focused, shot by shot, play by play, he said.

Wise words coming from a guy who sounds like he's been to a couple of NHL camps, learning from the likes of netminders Carey Price, Peter Budaj and Dustin Tokarski.

"When you're just talking to guys like that, you catch on to little things they do," Fucale said. "You watch them in the gym, how they work, their work ethic, how determined they are and what it really takes. You can feel it off them."

Yanks' Jeter walks off a hero

MLB. New York icon hits walk-off winner in final performance at Yankee Stadium

The perfect script.

Derek Jeter capped his Yankee Stadium farewell with a game-winning single in the bottom of the ninth inning, the latest — and perhaps last — storybook moment in his charmed and illustrious career, to give New York a 6-5 victory Thursday night over the Baltimore Orioles.

Serenaded with adoring chants that echoed through the Bronx night, Jeter tipped his cap several times at shortstop and drove in three runs. He launched an early double off the left-centre wall and saved the best for last, a sharp, opposite-field single to right that knocked in the winning run.

During the raucous celebration that followed, Jeter said he's played his final game at shortstop, but he'll likely play in some capacity this weekend in Boston.

It appeared Jeter's tie-breaking grounder in the seventh would be the swing that sent the Yankees to a victory when they built a 5-2 cushion against the AL East champions.

Not bad — but not Jeter.

Nope, he's always had a flair for the most electrifying kind of drama, and this night was destined to be no different. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Rainmen add standout Crawford

The Halifax Rainmen roster is growing.

The NBL of Canada franchise announced Thursday it has inked a deal with point guard Jordan Crawford for the 2014-15 season, pending clearance.

Crawford played NCAA Division 1 at Bowling Green State University, where he averaged 15 points, four assists, three rebounds and two steals per game as a senior.

"He is one of the quickest guards I have ever seen," Halifax Rainmen head coach Joseph "Pep" Claros Canals said in a news release.

Crawford is the fifth player signed by the Rainmen so far this year, with team owner and president Andre Levingston expecting further announcements.

Star player to star coach. Patrick Roy won't rest on his laurels

After putting up 112 points and winning the Jack Adams Trophy as coach of the year in his first season behind an NHL bench, what can Patrick Roy possibly do for an encore?

Even a coach with Roy's self-confidence doesn't see his second season with the gifted young Colorado Avalanche going that well.

"There are a lot of coaches that are better than me, but I believe I'll continue to learn," Roy said Thursday. "And the worst part of this is, I'm sure I'm going to be a better coach along the way and I'm probably never going to win the Jack Adams again."

"It was a great year. It was fun, but now it's behind us."

The Avalanche are on a two-game swing through Roy's old patch, with games Thursday night in Montreal, where he starred for the Canadiens for 10 seasons, and Friday night in Quebec City, where he built the Remparts into a Quebec Major Junior Hockey League power after his Hall of Fame playing career ended.

Mickelson to face McIlroy at Ryder Cup

PGA. Undefeated American duo to face new European pair at Gleneagles

Phil Mickelson poked fun at Rory McIlroy. Now they get to face off in the Ryder Cup.

Mickelson and Keegan Bradley, undefeated as a team two years ago at Medinah, face the European powerhouse of McIlroy and Sergio Garcia in the opening session of fourballs on Friday at Gleneagles.

"We're looking to hand them their first defeat tomorrow morning," McIlroy said.

They will be the anchor match of what should be a fascinating opening session.

U.S. captain Tom Watson made sure all three of his rookies were on the course at Gleneagles right away, and two of them are partners — 21-year-old Jordan Spieth and 24-year-old Patrick Reed, the youngest pairing in Ryder Cup history.

Europe captain Paul McGinley put together four pairings who have never played together in a Ryder Cup. That includes McIlroy and Garcia, who he said have become fast friends over the summer and asked to play together.

"The fun is only starting now," McGinley said.

Mickelson took a playful jab at McIlroy on Wednesday when he said the best part of American unity is the players don't "litigate against each other." McIlroy has a court battle against his former management company, and the lawsuit involves Graeme McDowell.

McIlroy told Golf Channel on Thursday that he "got a couple of jabs back" at the gala dinner on Wednesday.

"I know Phil well and we had a couple of laughs about it," McIlroy said.

Mickelson and Bradley went 2-1-1 as partners in the Presidents Cup last year, so they are not unbeatable. And while they faced some of Europe's strongest tandems at Medinah — including handing Garcia and Luke Donald their first loss in foursomes — this might be the toughest yet.

"It's going to be a difficult match against what we perceive as the strongest team that Europe has," Mickelson said.

Watson went with his strength at the top. He chose Bubba Watson and Webb Simpson in the opening match against Justin Rose and Henrik Stenson. Watson and Simpson won both fourballs matches at Medinah, beating both opponents on the 14th hole.

Rickie Fowler and Jimmy Walker will play the second match against Martin Kaymer and Thomas Bjorn, the 43-year-old Dane who is playing in the Ryder Cup for the first time since 2002.

Both captains said their plan was for all 12 players to be on the course by the end of Friday.

"People are going to say there is real strength at the top, real strength at the bottom," McGinley said. "It's really strength all over. I really, really rate this American team. We're going to have to be on if we're going to beat them."

Four-man bobsled now co-ed

Kaillie Humphries will be the test case, the guinea pig if you will, on females racing with and against men in bobsled.

The two-time Olympic gold medalist in women's bobsled has been given the green light to pilot a four-man sled with male brakemen.

The governing body FIBT essentially declared Thursday that four-man bobsled is "gender neutral," which allows for mixed teams and all-female teams to compete against men's four-man sleds.

Humphries asked the FIBT at the organization's congress in May to allow her to pilot a men's sled. With just six weeks until the start of the 2014-15 racing season, the executive committee essentially said yes.

While it leaves national bobsled federations scrambling to figure out how this will work, Humphries was elated Thursday.

"This day and age, it's something I feel the world is ready for," the Calgarian said. "I need new challenges and this is a huge one. I think for me knowing another four-year cycle means pushing myself, pushing the limits, the target on my back is a lot bigger."

"I don't want to ever become complacent. And I know this is a challenge that will not allow that to happen. This is something that will challenge me mentally and physically to step up my game."

Horoscopes by Sally Brompton

♈ Aries

March 21 - April 20

You seem to have overdone it and need time to recover from your exertions. Even so, Aries is never inactive for long and come the beginning of next week you'll be on the go again.

♉ Taurus

April 21 - May 21

Something will happen over the next few days that undermines your confidence. Be that as it may everything will be resolved when Venus, your ruler, changes signs next week.

♊ Gemini

May 22 - June 21

The setbacks of recent months can now be seen in a more positive light. Even when you were on the receiving end of bad news it was teaching you and toughening you up.

♋ Cancer

June 22 - July 23

Take advantage of the Sun moving through Libra to sit back and relax. If you have not finished something by now chances are it will never see the light of day, so forget it.

♌ Leo

July 24 - Aug. 23

Don't think about all the bad things that go on in the world – think about how you personally can make it a better place in some small way. Get to it.

♍ Virgo

Aug. 24 - Sept. 23

There are things going on behind the scenes of which you are only vaguely aware. Keep your eyes and ears open.

♎ Libra

Sept. 24 - Oct. 23

Developments in your social life may have the edge taken off them by bad news concerning your finances today. Mercury's move into the money area of your chart tomorrow will bring an obvious answer.

♏ Scorpio

Oct. 24 - Nov. 22

Saturn in your sign does not seem restrictive of late but that does not mean you can loosen your hold on the purse strings.

♐ Sagittarius

Nov. 23 - Dec. 21

On the work front someone is trying to undermine you by talking you down in front of employers. Don't worry, they won't get anywhere.

♑ Capricorn

Dec. 22 - Jan. 20

You have been keeping to yourself a lot in recent days and loved ones are wondering why. Put their minds at rest by telling them your plans.

♒ Aquarius

Jan. 21 - Feb. 19

It may not feel right that certain people have the power to force you in a certain direction but in a matter of days you will be glad it happened that way.

♓ Pisces

Feb. 20 - March 20

Someone you live or work with will be irritable in the extreme over the next 24 hours. There is no point trying to reason with them or cheer them up because they enjoy being negative. Just stay out of their way.
